"When I destroy a relationship, then this event - sin - touches the other person involved in the relationship... Since the relationship with creation has been damaged, only the Creator himself can be our savior." Pope Benedict XVI, In the Beginning []: A Catholic Understanding of the Story of Creation and the Fall

"O Eternal Truth, True Love, and Beloved Eternity!" - St. Augustine of Hippo

"A light for revelation to the Gentiles, and for glory to your people Israel" (2:32). With these words Simeon describes the Messiah of the Lord, at the end of his hymn of blessing. The topic of light, that re-echoes the first and second songs of the Servant of the Lord in the Deutero-Isaiah (cf. Is 42:6; 49:6), is vividly present in this liturgy. It was in fact opened by an evocative procession, in which the Superiors and General Superiors of the Institutes of consecrated life represented here took part and carried lit candles. This sign, specific to the liturgical tradition of this Feast, is deeply expressive. It shows the beauty and value of the consecrated life as a reflection of Christ's light; a sign that recalls Mary's entry into the Temple. The Virgin Mary, the Consecrated Woman par excellence, carried in her arms the Light himself, the Incarnate Word who came to dispel the darkness of the world with God's love."

(Pope Emeritus Benedict XVI, Homily on Feast of the Presentation of the Lord; Candlemas, 2013)
